

PER papers published in the American Journal of Physics since 1972

The following papers have a significant or primary focus on collection and analysis of data regarding thinking or performance of students or instructors, or a focus on the methodologies or models appropriate to collecting and analyzing data of this type. Underlined titles are electronically linked to the AJP-online reference. This list is not intended to be comprehensive.

1972

Roger L. Ptak and Ronald E. Stoner, "A physics survey course with a large entropy," Am. J. Phys. 40, 611 (1972).
